Investor Finn Gramnaes and his WOW-moment

Or, the Smoltek story – from nanostructures for semiconductors to mind-controlled prosthesis. In December 2005, Shafiq Kabir together with Peter Enoksson founded Smoltek on the basis of Shafiq's thesis on how to grow nanostructures. In around 2008 Finn Gramnaes got notice of the small tech company and said: "WOW! This I must join."

Get to know Xin – new R&D engineer at Smoltek

Xin Wen, PhD. from Chalmers University of Technology is employed as a new research engineer at Smoltek, since the beginning of October. She will mainly work on the fabrication and characterization of nanomaterials and microelectronics devices. Xin holds a bachelor's in Metallic Material Engineering, a master's in Material Engineering and a doctor's degree in Materials Science – the research focus of master was on the microstructure of coating materials for C/C composites and the PhD study was with a focus on the shape control synthesis and microstructure studies of metal nanoparticles.
